THE SPIRIT ANNUAL

1921

EDITION DE LUXE

Three Hundred and Twenty-five Copies of This Edition Have Been Printed For Sale in the United States, of which this is No. 191

Prologue

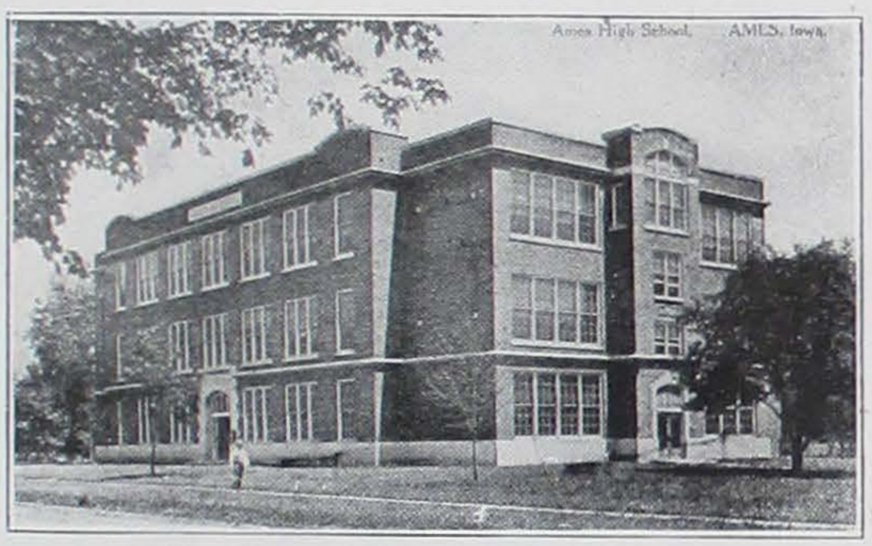

Just a minute! Before you further explore this book may the members of the staff have just a word. Our book, the Spirit Annual, the joint product of student and faculty co-operation is in in your hands. Imperfections it has in plenty, but remember—an annual is not the work of the editors, but the workmanship of the editors on the material furnished by the students. Roast the Annual, pick out its faults, if you as one of the student body did your share in creating the book. If you did not do your part, go ahead and edit an annual of your own of which you do approve.

There have been difficulties to overcome, largely because of the increased cost of printing and engraving. Our financial affairs have been hard to keep above water level but we have done so by reducing the number of pages and by using all available funds, and here is your Annual. We hope you like it. May it always be a pleasant reminder of your days here.

Hoping to receive your charitable judgment the Senior Class of '21 presents to you this "Spirit Annual."

YOUR FEELINGS

When you're feeling sort o' blue,
And you don't know what to do,
    And everything about goes dead wrong;
Just cast away that frown,
Lay all your troubles down,
    Brace up, and show the world that you are strong.

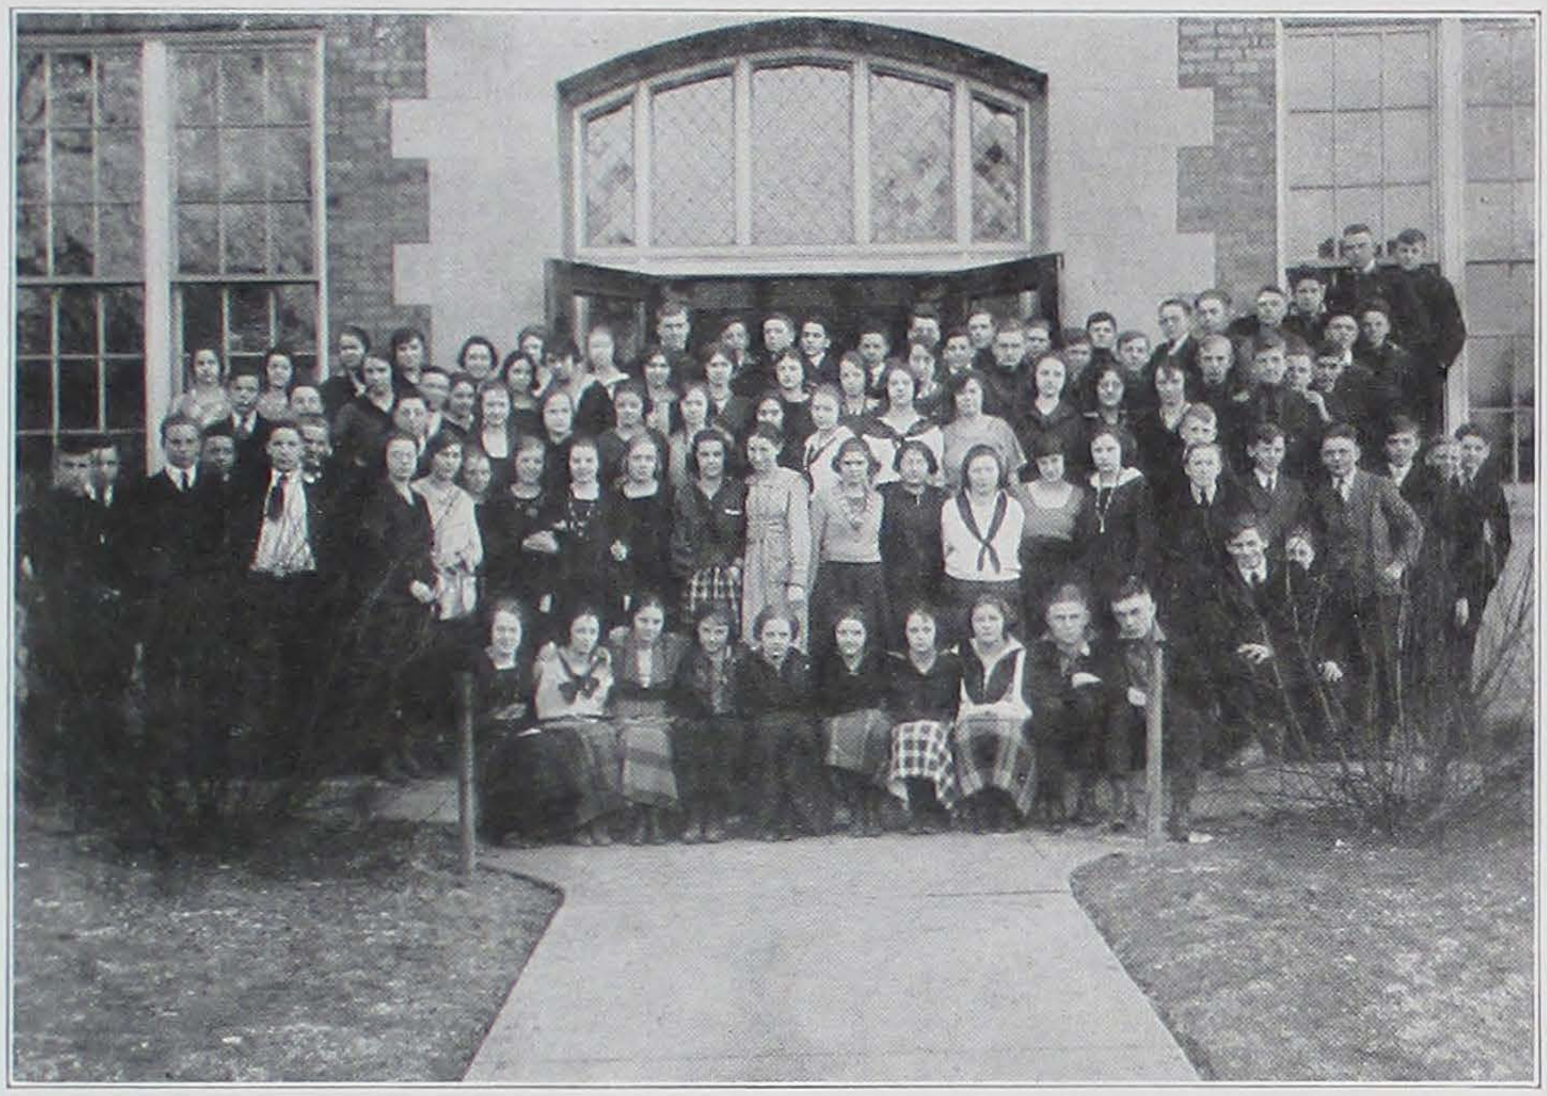

When you're feeling sort o' lazy,
Everything is dull and hazy,
    And the other feller can't do nothin' right;
Forget about your ills,
And the little winter chills,
    Or the other chap is sure to win the fight.

When you're feeling bright and cheery,
Light of heart instead of dreary,
    And all the world about you is in rhyme;
Just wear a pleasant smile,
You'll find it is worth while,
    For a smile will bring the sunshine every time.

The Corridor Club is quite a popular ring,
And it seems to be worse now during spring,
We all know the old saying is very true
And it seems to be now—with a certain few.

Some new ones have joined, you probably know
Among them are Anna Ruth and Bud Coe.
Some old members have left this terrible peril
These were Charline Woods and Red Merrill.

But yet there are some who still stand by the door,
Ackley, Red, Violet and Howard Gore,
Who seem to be standbys and never will care
For anyone else, no matter how fair.

Tell me not in truthful accents
    Every girl can have a beau,
For there are many who can't find them
    Though they hunt them high and low.

Life is real, life is earnest,
    Matrimony is the prize,
Yet there are many who can't gain it
    Though they're witty, gay and wise.

In the world's broad field of battle,
    In the busy whirl of life
None wishes to be single,
    Each would rather be a wife.

Let them be up and doing,
    Watching, watching for a man,
And the first who comes to woo you,
    Charm and catch him if you can.

(With apologies to Longfellow.)

"THE POWER IN A PEA"

By ORLO R. CHASE

James T. Hoover was a very mean man. He was so tight he'd squeeze a nickel till it perspired. He was also very wealthy. He owned several farms, lots of cattle, horses, sheep, hogs and chickens. And last but not least, he had a nephew. He thought he owned him. Maybe he did.

"Nick" Hoover was feeding the hogs when J. T. came home.

"Go get them colts," he growled. Nick went. At least he went as far as the gate, where he pulled a small wooden whistle from his pocket. In the bowl of this whistle was a pea. Nick blew a shrill blast. After a moment's wait a group of "two-year-olds" came racing over the hill. In the lead was a nimble, full-chested coal-black mare.

Nick gave Blue-Bird a lump of sugar and led the colts into the stable.

"What's the big idea?" he demanded of J. T.

"There's a fellow going to buy a couple, so brush them up a little," replied his uncle.

Nick did as he was bid, but secretly hoped that Blue-Bird would not be sold. Fate decreed otherwise however, for at two o'clock Tim O'Loran came, at five he left, leading Blue-Bird and Tiny. This was in June.

During the next two months Nick and his uncle's jockey "Toad" worked a couple of J. T.'s horses, preparing them for the annual races at the county fair.

The day of the races arrived. James T. gave Nick two dollars and twenty cents. Nick then went fairward. After paying the entrance fee, buying hamburgers, ice-cream cones, merry-go-round rides, etc., he didn't have much left.

Some time later after a ride in the Ferris wheel he heard a cheer from the direction of the race track. "Guess I'll go to the races," he thought. Arriving at the entrance he started to enter.

"Ticket please?"

"They don't charge, do they?" asked Nick.

"Sure, wata y'u think this is, a free for all nursery show?"

Nick gulped and nervously put his hand in his pocket. He drew out the contents, a button, a dime, a pocket knife and a small wooden pea whistle. "How much is it?" eagerly he asked.

"Fifty cents," the man replied uninterestedly.

Nick crawled in thru a hole in the fence alongside some other "brokes." The races had already started and the half mile was nearly up. Nick was in love with racing. Here was excitement! Here they come! Nick grows excited and pulls his whistle from his pocket—puts it to his lips. The people are yelling. Nick blows his whistle. Then he recognizes the leading horse as one belonging to his uncle.

He nervously puts the whistle to his mouth and blows a shrill blast. A nimble, coal-black, two year old is forging ahead. Now they are even. No, the black is ahead.

Nick blows his whistle again and again. And Blue-Bird wins. Nick ran to get out of the way of the black colt but the former pet insisted on catching him. So Nick stopped and caressed her. The owner, Tim O'Loran, came up to Nick.

"I see why my horse—or rather yours, won."

Nick smiled, "Yes I blew the whistle and Blue-Bird heard."

"Blue-Bird nothing. I call her Minx. I don't see anything blue about her."

Nick was shocked. "Why she's blue blooded."

"Oh, yes, I see, but Blue-Blood, or Blue-Bird, I see you and the colt are pretty well attached. I made enough out of the race to make you a present of her. Take her, she's yours."

Nick took.

SPRING TIME

Oh, spring is come, Oh, spring is here,
And now, the days are full of music,
And most of the birds are back again
In the meadows and in the tree-tops,
See them flying in the sunlight,
Hear them sing, loud and sweet,
Oh, I know they love the spring time
Because it is the sweetest time of all the year.

—Holger Jensen.

PRIZE POEM

"MEMORIES."

When you wonder each evening
O'er the annual all alone,
And you look upon the faces
Of all the class mates you have known;
When the school days come before you
And you look with eager eyes
You will see the lads and lassies
Who were happy, gay and wise.
Wandering o'er life's shadowed path
They slowly wend their way,
And gaily reach the home shore,
At the closing of the day.
Again you see the teachers
With their kind and pleasant smile,
The ones you always liked the best
Because they helped you all the while.
When school work would be difficult
And a vacation on ahead
They always knew you couldn't do
Just everything they said.
Still with eagerness and longing
All your visions you revere,
And greet the living presence
Of the ones you hold so dear.

—Mildred Schroeder, '22.

PRIZE POEM

ODE TO MISS RAYBURN

'Twas the first of September,
And all through the room,
There was silence and weeping;
We had gone to our doom.
Before us sat Rayburn,
She made us all sigh.
We could tell by her looks
That trouble was nigh.

But behold, she arose,
And it seemed to be joy
To say "Equo" means horse
And "pueri" means boy.
We learned conjugation
And all kinds of junk,
But before we did know it
She made most of us flunk.

She would sit there as stern
As a judge on a bench,
Her eyes shone like fire
That no water could quench.
She took us through torture
Without our permit,
But before she had finished
A few of us quit.
But since it is over
Things sure have been bum.
She has kept us for hours
For just chewing gum!
Miss Rayburn, have mercy,
Pray do not offend;
Let's hope in the future,
Our troubles may end.

—L. Link.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

FORENSIC CLUB

FORENSIC CLUB

Each member of the Forensic Club is required to appear upon the club programs in alphabetical order. Sometimes a modern author is discussed, sometimes a new invention, and sometimes live topics of the day. Most interesting programs are presented by those members who are talented enough to be able to give us comic readings and impersonations. Several informal debates have been held.

It was suggested that the club be made a debating club exclusively, but the members did not vote to do so for two reasons: first, because it is the only literary club in school so it should include all the different forms of public speaking; second, but not least, the club would not be able to get very many members if debating only was studied.

The club is only three years old but it has accomplished a great deal and is worthy of the support of every student in A. H. S. Will we boost for it next year? Yea Bo!

Officers: Brice Gamble, president; Ralph Dove, vice-president; Floyd Scarborough, secretary; Theron Barger, treasurer; Miss Hiller, adviser.

DRAMATIC CLUB

First row—Armstrong, Sloss, McCarthy, Parsons, Marston, Gilbert, Mellor, R. Murray. Second row—Burton, Smutz, Griffith, Ghrist, Confare, French, Armstrong, Rayness. Third row—Stanton, G. Murray, Moore, Livingstone, Woodward, Tripp, Miller. Fourth row—Erickson, Beam, Noble, Miss Hiller, Kooser, Macy, Houser, Caul

The Dramatic Club is an organization of about thirty members, with Miss Hiller as adviser; Violet Tripp, president; Ruth Parsons, vice-president; Edna Armstrong, secretary. The club meets every Tuesday, the third period, in Miss Hiller's room.

The club has helped clear part of the debt left over from last year, by having two candy sales. Both of these sales were very successful, and a good profit was made.

The first part of the year Miss Hiller gave lectures on the development of dramatic art and the stage in several of the foreign countries. These were very interesting and all those who heard them will be more able to appreciate the different forms of the drama which the various races have developed.

DECLAMATORY CONTESTANTS

DEBATE

The state question: Resolved, "That the shop committee plan of Industrial Management should be adopted by all industrial plants which employ more than two hundred men." The question was unpopular with many of the schools in the State League and Ames was not alone in her withdrawal.

We wish to thank our coaches and supporters and to add that debating is a very excellent combination of fun and work.

DECLAMATORY CONTESTS

Ames High is proud of the number of students who took part in Declamatory work this year. The work was arranged in a series of three preliminary contests, in which about thirty students were judged. The declaimers winning places in the three preliminary contests were again judged in the semi-final contest, and the very best of these appeared in the final contest February fourth.

The winners in the final contest were: Ben Wagner, first; Helen Rodgers, second—Oratorical: Nell Taylor, first; Rose Roberson, second—Dramatic: Geverna Erickson, first; Agnes Moore, second—Humourous. The first place over all went to Nell Taylor, who spoke "Peg O' My Heart" and won the hearts of her entire audience.

ORCHESTRA

First row—Erickson, F. Stoddard, Elliot, Tostlebe, Hibner, White. Second row—Seymour, Wagner, Smith, Shepard, Spence, Sheeley. Third row—D. Stoddard, Davis, Person, Roupe, Prof. Stoddard, A. Elliot

We have a very fine band this year and lack of space alone keeps us from giving them the praise that's due.

They have come thru the year with a long list of achievements to make us proud of them.

They led the Carnival parade, and advertised it nobly. They backed the football games and played with real A. H. S. spirit.

The band is proud of their instructor, the instructor is proud of his band and the high school is proud of them both.

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra has won praise for many reasons this year. They have responded to every call. We needed music for pep meetings and now we have two "peppy" pep orchestras. They have even concerted outside of Ames, going to Story City last winter on a memorable trip. Every Monday and Friday our loyal orchestra furnishes music for the High School picture shows. Proud of them? Yes—and we have reasons to be.

ASSEMBLY BOARD

First row—Smith, Burton, Gray. Second row—Miss Bodwell, Mr. Stoddard, Spence

TO THE SENIORS

Oh Seniors! You're going to leave us.
You are joyful, happy and gay.
You are thinking of what is before you,
The beautiful golden way.
Will I win? 'Tis the thought of the future.
Have I won? 'Tis the thought of the past.
You will fight life's battle forever,
And work until the last.

There are many you leave behind you,
They are sad you have gone to stay.
You have taken a chance at life's gamble,
We hope you will go the right way.
And when death has smitten your worries,
When all your trouble has gone.
The words you have spoken when living,
Are the words the world will pass on.

CARNIVAL

The Carnival certainly lived up to the prophecy in last year's Annual. It was the biggest and best Carnival of which A. H. S. has ever boasted.

From the minute the doors opened until after midnight not a dull minute passed. The "Junior" and "Senior Stunts," the "Minstrel Show" and the "Spanish Dance" and "Vaudeville" were hugely enjoyed. The most striking feature about these were their originality and pep. Between acts everybody bought lavishly from the stands. These were under the supervision of the best salesmen in the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A. and the Freshman Class.

It was a back-to-childhood movement and Seniors and kindergartners enjoyed the "Shoot the Chutes." My! How they swarmed around for a ride.

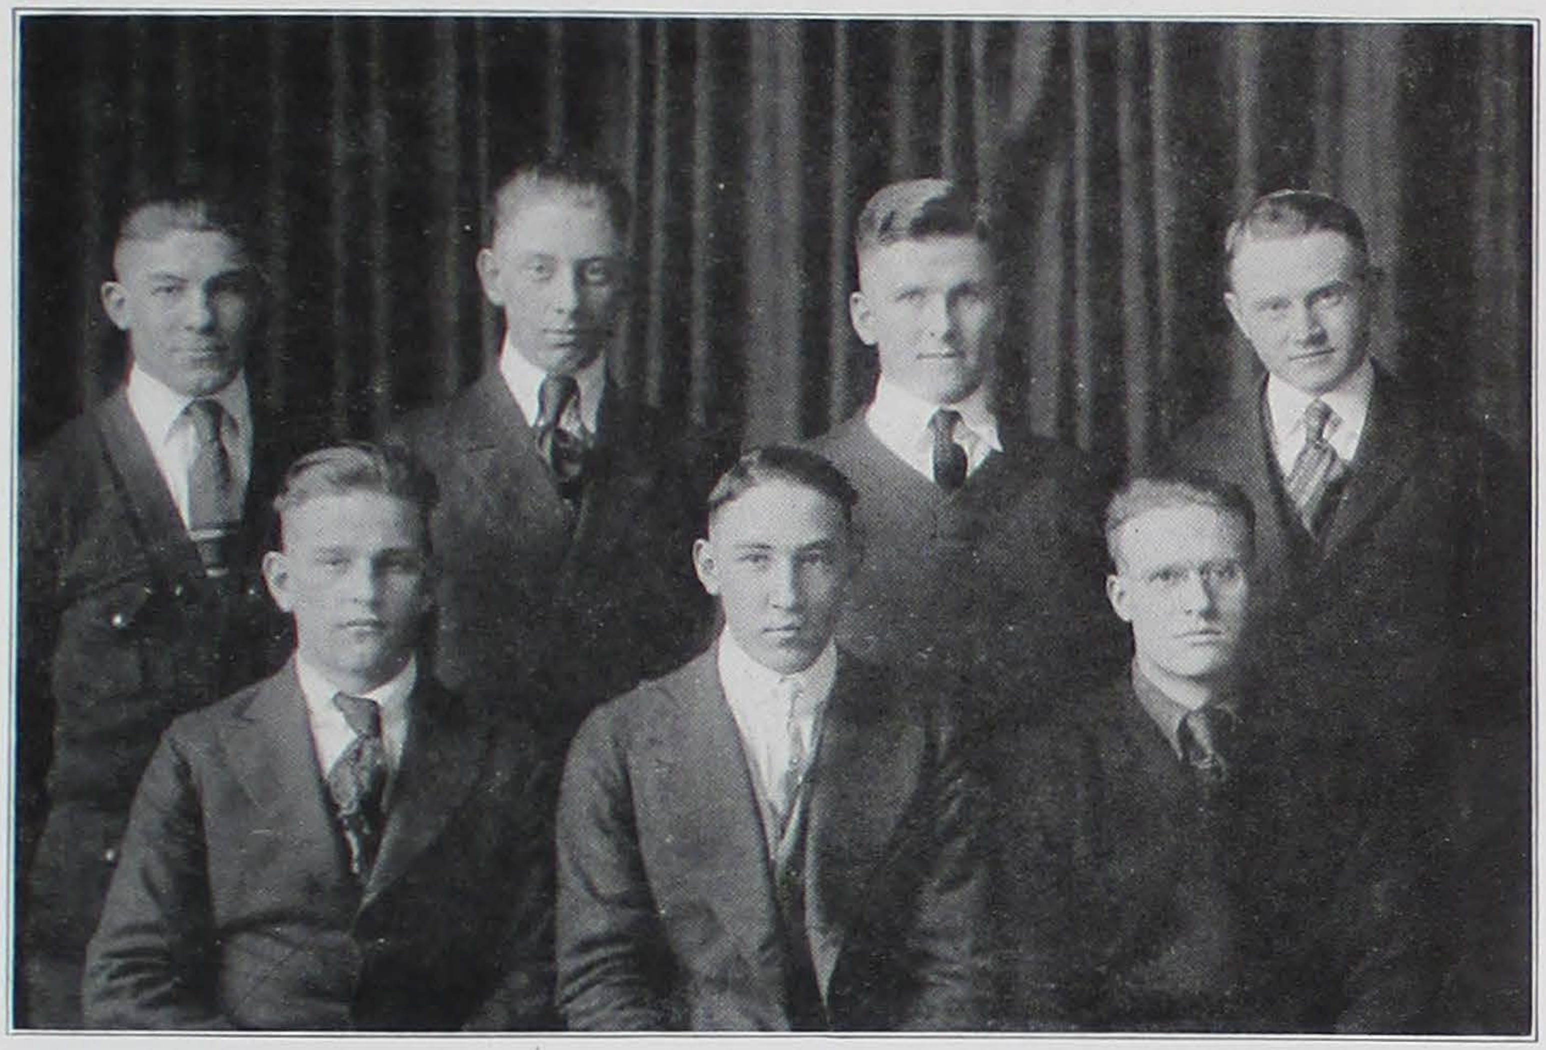

Anglers were also attracted by a fish pond near by. To show the wide field of entertainment furnished we mention the Honey Moon Trail on third floor where an electric moon shone dreamily down on a long, long trail through the Chemistry, Physics and Biology laboratories.

"A commendable and wholesome entertainment," "Bigger and better every year" are some of the admiring remarks that were overheard. Those who took part were amply repaid when four hundred and seventy five dollars were placed on the profit side of the High School books.

As a High School we thank those who patronzed the Carnival and express our appreciation for the co-operation of the faculty and students.

We're looking forward to another like it next year. Yea! Carnival!

WINNERS OF THE "A"

Most High Schools and Colleges now follow the custom of awarding, to those most worthy of the honor, a monogram which represents the school.

Ames High of course follows this time honored custom. Heretofore sweaters with letters were given but this year only the monogram and armbands were awarded.

The letter "A" and armband (one "stripe" for each year of service in that particular sport) are orange in color and worn on black sweaters.

All the boys who have won at least one "A" are eligible for membership in the "A" Club.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

The past football season of the year nineteen hundred and twenty may justly be called a season of "hard luck."

Our coach, Mr. Emmert, was hampered in various ways from turning out a winning team. In the first place he had a light and inexperienced bunch to work with. Secondly the squad was broken up in the fore part of the season, making it necessary to practically rebuild the team—everyone will agree that this was no easy task.

However, through the combined efforts of Coach Emmert and the determination of the members of the squad coupled with the experience they had gained in the former games, Ames was enabled to win the last two games of the season.

After all, experience is the best teacher, in football as in life. It is experience and football brains, not weight and brawn, that wins games.

In comparing our total scores of the season with those of our opponents we find that we have amassed a total of 35 points compared with our opponent's 164.

Our schedule included games with: Webster City, West High (Des Moines), Newton, Perry, Boone, Nevada and Denison. Marshalltown was on our schedule but the game was cancelled on account of the weatherman's disposition.

With but four of this year's eleven in line for their sheepskins, prospects for next fall's team look mighty bright. To be sure Ames would have liked to have turned out a winning team this year as in former years. Under the circumstances it was impossible so the next best thing was done.

Someone always has to be the loser and remember too—that it takes a better sport than it does to win.

FOOTBALL "A" MEN

Earl played a fast game at end this year. His breaking up end runs and nailing the man with the ball was the feature of his playing. Weight 144 pounds. First year.

Brooks, left tackle

Earl's height and reach broke up plays that were aimed at the end. He was as good a man as there was on the team on the offensive. Weight 147 pounds. Last year.

Hunter, left guard

When "Tissy" was going good he made a good guard. He had plenty of weight and ability but lacked experience. Weight 160 pounds. First year.

Howell, center

One of the lightest men on the team and playing one of the hardest positions was Eben's role. He used his head and played good football. Weight 135 pounds. First year.

Douglas, right tackle

Irwin has played at both guard and tackle this year and shows up well in either position. He used his speed to advantage in getting down under punts. Weight 144 pounds. First year.

Van Epps, right end

Showed improvement as the season progressed. Played better in the Nevada game than in any of the other games. Weight 146 pounds. Last year.

Martin, quarter

"Al," too, lacked experience but he is a little whirlwind on his feet. He is a fast open field runner and a good passer. Weight 132. First year.

Olson, fullback

If "Burt" didn't have an off day he was a defensive bulwark. Offensively he was our best line smasher and at times showed great ability at blocking. Played a good game against West High. Weight 149. First year.

"Curly" had a good eye for picking holes in the opposing line. He also deserves much credit for the way in which he returned punts. Weight 128 pounds. First year.

Gore, captain, right half

Capably filling a captain's shoes, Howard played clean football and asked the same from the opposing team. A good man on the defense and handy at pulling down passes. Gore was a valuable man. Weight 138. Last year.

BASKETBALL REVIEW

Basketball this year was similar to our football in that the coach had for the most part, an inexperienced squad from which to choose a team. Another similarity is that the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors have gained experience that will be of value in future years.

A total of sixteen games were played by the first team, seven of which were tucked away as wins for Ames High. A total of 219 points for Ames and 314 points for her opponents.

The Ames seconds were kept busy. The second string was composed of: Holsinger and Adamson, centers; Proctor, Martin and Innes forwards; Roe and Warren guards. A game with Nevada's second quintet resulted in an Ames victory besides their contesting in the Annual Kelly Tourney. In the tournament they took second place being defeated only by Gilbert High School.

BASKETBALL "A" MEN

Gore, R. F. (Captain)

Howard proved to be as able a captain in basketball as he was in football. He is a good all around player. Gore also did most of the free throwing for Ames. He led the team in goals from the field. Last year.

Smart, L. F.

The floor work of "Aub" was probably the best on the team. He is a good dribbler and a fair shot at the basket. As to the quality of his defensive playing —it takes a pretty good man to get around him. Second year.

Tostlebe, C. or G.

The old jinx camped on "Jake's" trail during the football season preventing him from earning his letter so he set about to earn one in basketball. Homer played the first half of the season after which he left school. Last year.

Coe, R. G. or C.

"Bud" started out the season in the guard position but later was switched to the pivot berth. Not so good at advancing the ball down the floor, Coe makes up for this with his pep and close guarding. First year.

Morris, L. G.

"Mike" played the backguard position and played it well. Although handicapped by his lack of height it took a good forward to outwit him. First year.

Brooks, C.

Brooks is not as good on the basketball court as he is on the football field. He earned his letter through hard work rather than through natural basketball ability.

Allen, G.

"Bert" got his letter this year because he stuck to the game and always tried. First year.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Miss Clough started us out with physical exercises, then relay races, baseball, and most important of all, basketball. We were promised an inter-class tournament and it was towards that end that we put forth our every effort. About two weeks before the tournament the different classes elected their captain and each one, with the help of Miss Clough, picked the team which was to represent the class. The girls who were judged the best players, of course, were chosen, and those who were not chosen, showed their good sportsmanship by coming out and playing against the chosen ones. It was practice they needed and it was practice the second team gave them. All too soon the tournament was at hand. Excitement ran high and interest was keen. In the preliminary games, the Sophomores ran away with the Preps, and the Juniors defeated the Seniors, even if it was only by a bare margin. "A miss is as good as a mile."

The next night was even more important, because the championship was to be decided. There was more excitement, more interest, yells, et cetera, if that was possible. When the whistle blew at the end of the second half, the score board said that the Seniors were victorious. Then came the real game, the Junior-Sophomore conflict. From the time the whistle blew at the start to the time when it blew at the finish the game was fast and furious. The Juniors took the lead and held it, coming out of the game, the "Champions," of the girls' teams in basketball. Later, in assembly, they were presented with basketball emblems, which they are now wearing on their sweaters.

"Victory" seems to have taken a fascination for the Junior class, because the winners of the tournament, both this year and last, were the Juniors.

SPRING TIME

List to the murmuring brooklet,
Rippling upon its way;
Hark to the song of the robin,
And the meadow-lark's sweet lay.
The winds bring the trees a message;
The rain comes pattering down
And tells the grass and flowers
To awake, from their sleep in the ground.
The big round sun comes smiling
Up, from another world.
What can be prettier than Spring-time
With its deep blue skies unfurled?

We hear the laughter of children
And, then a school bell rings,
And we catch the whispered wishes
That "there never was such a thing!"
Outside, the birds were calling;
Inside, the school-ma'am's whip;
But, e'er before they knew it
Their hearts to spring would slip.
The Master of the Artists
Revealed to us His powers,
When he painted the beautiful picture
Of Spring-time's sunny bowers.

The years roll on forever;
This picture fades away;
But, when winter's work is finished
The Master artist again holds sway.
He paints the faded colors
Of winter's hoary blast,
Into shades of brightest Spring time
Forever in our mem'ries to last.

4 Extra! Extra! Big Horse Sale of French and Physics Thoro-Bred Ponies. Going Cheap. Ask Seniors.

5 Baccalaureate.

9 Class Day.

10 Commencement. All's over for the Class of '21. Secret of the " '21-ers" success. Listen!

Early to bed and early to rise,
Love all the teachers and tell them no lies,
Study your lessons that you may be wise,
And buy from the men who advertise.

HOW WE FEEL ABOUT IT

The "Spirit" staff feels that gratitude and thanks are due to a number of people who have helped in the publication of this book. Our engravers, the "Jahn & Ollier Engraving Company," have done our work well and promptly. Our photographer, Mr. Quade, has been unfailing in his courtesy and patience, has been reasonable in his prices and excellent in his work. Our advertisers who have made this book possible, have backed us loyally even tho the financial outlook is rather depressing. Our subscribers, our advisers, our printers, "The Tribune Publishing Company" and everyone who contributed to the contents of this annual—to each and all we extend our thanks.

Ames High Leads the Way

The Tilden Manufacturing Company has absorbed enough of the Ames High spirit to become a leader in the list of manufacturers making school and college specialities. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, the largest dealers are depending upon the Ames company to furnish the latest and best articles.

At a time when there are many who are inclined to be pessimistic about business conditions, the Tilden Manufacturing Company is going forward as usual with a 1921 policy conforming with the following sentiment:

> "The things that haven't been done before
> Are the tasks worth while today.
> Are you one of the flock that follows,
> Or are you one that shall lead the way?
> Are you one of the timid souls that quail
> At the jeers of a doubting crew,
> Or dare you, whether you win or fail
> Strike out for a goal that's new?"

Mother: "No, stay in the house, it isn't a night fit for a dog to be out; let your father post the letters."

Miss Taylor rehearsing the Staff for the Spirit Assembly stunt: "Now if you folks will alternate there—if every other boy will be a girl."

For the benefit of the Preps we wish to announce that Donan Hibner and Wallace Van Oosten aren't walking on stilts. They just grew that way.

Welcome ever smiles and
Farewell goes out
sighing. Shakespeare
